TEMPERATURE DROPS
TO NEAR FREEZING
IN PANHANDLE AREACOLD WEATHER CAME ON HEELS OF GENERAL RAINS
OVER THE STATE

(By The Associated Press.)

The first cold weather of the season struck Northwest Texas today when a norther sent the temperature down near freezing in the upper Panhandle.

Coming on the tail of general rains over the state, the temperature drop marked the end of prolonged dry, warm weather in that region.

The Wichita Falls area received .80 of an inch of rain during the night. The rain extended from Electra to Fort Worth and Dallas, and from Wichita Falls to Dublin, Whitesboro and Altus, Okla.

The moisture was badly needed to prepare the ground for fall breaking and to benefit late feed and truck crops as well as winter wheat.

The minimum temperature at Dallas was 53 degrees. At Paris the temperature fell to a low of 45 and there were light rains in that vicinity. Dallas had 1.2 inches of rain and a minimum temperature of 53.

In the last 36 hours general rains have definitely broken the drought in practically all parts of Texas. West Texas benefitted especially, with 2 inches at Aspermont, 1 inch at Snyder, Colville and Midland, good rains at Cisco, Baird, Haskell and Albany, and the finest rain in months at Llano, amounting to 1.86 inches. Monrath had hard rains and Cincy a three-hour drizzle.

Younger Brother
Carl Estes Dies
In Auto Crash

TYLER, Nov. 15.—(P)—The body of Marion R. Estes, younger brother of Carl Estes, Longview publisher, was taken from a wrecked automobile on the Tyler-Dallas highway today. He apparently had been dead for some time.

A passer-by found the body and it was identified by papers found in the victim's pockets after it had been brought to a Tyler undertaker's establishment.

Estes was survived by his widow and two weeks' old baby. Estes, who was 23 years old, apparently was blinded by rain and failed to negotiate a turn.

HAMMOND, La., Nov. 15.—(P)—Ike Starnes carried his grudge against Dr. Sedgie Newsom to the death.

Starnes, accused of tarring and feathering Dr. Hammond dentist four years ago, died in a main street gun fight last night in a last bid for vengeance upon the man he held responsible for his estrangement with his wife.

Before police gunfire thwarted his last attempt on the dentist's life, he fired his last shot at officers from a prone position near the sidewalk where he fell wounded fatally.

His father, Burlin Starnes, sitting in an automobile in the middle of the street, picked up a shotgun, but was disarmed by officers and arrested on a charge of attempted murder. His mother ran screaming from the car, and was led by friends. The Starnes began shooting when officers, who had been summoned because of a threat made earlier in the evening against the dentist, attempted to dissuade him from violence. Two bullets grazed an officer while others hit perilously near Dr. Newsom.

Officers said Starnes had made threats on previous occasions to "get the dentist." Dr. Newsom said his interest in the wife, Gladys Starnes, was only professional and obtained judgment in a suit against Starnes for damages. Mrs. Starnes later divorced.

J. M. Dyer, Sr., 77, prominent leader in the civic and commercial affairs of Corsicana for many years, and head of the large department store bearing his name, died at 9:30 o'clock while sitting at a counter on the first floor of the J. M. Dyer company store Thursday morning. He was reported talking to an employee of the concern at the time he was stricken and was pronounced dead by three physicians who were summoned.

Was Civic Leader.
He had taken a leading part in all projects for the advancing of civic affairs and was financially interested in a number of local concerns. Mr. Dyer served two terms as president of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce and had been prominently identified with this organization in various other capacities. He was a member of the Corsicana Lions Club for many years and served as a director of the Corsicana Cotton Mills until a few months ago when he assumed the duties of president.

Mr. Dyer was a past president of the Texas Retail Dry Goods association, was a member of the board of the United Charities, and was an elder in the First Presbyterian church, as well as being identified with a number of other organizations here.

Very Popular Here.
Persons from all walks of life were stunned when they learned of Mr. Dyer's passing and universally paid tribute to him as a citizen, civic leader and business man.

WORST STORM SEASON

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 15.—(P)—Four fishermen were reported drowned off Catbalogan on the island of Samar in the first accounts of loss of life in yesterday's devastating typhoon.

Estimates placed the homeless at 20,000 in the town of Naga, a provincial capital of Luzon Island. Red Cross relief workers prepared to leave on the first train tomorrow for Naga, apparently the most hard hit of any city in the islands.

The quartet drowned off Catbalogan were fishing when the typhoon overtook them. A fifth native was swept out into the ocean, but his fate was not definitely determined.

Catbalogan is the capital of Samar island in the Visayas group of Luzon.

Telegraphic communication between Manila and eleven provinces, mostly south of here, were completely disrupted by the storm, the worst of the many that have struck the Archipelago in the last six weeks. A few radio stations whose aeras survived the terrific wind furnished the only communication between the islands.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 15.—(P)—A typhoon believed to be the most violent of a series lashing the central Philippines this fall, passed north of Manila today leaving heavy destruction and probable loss of life in its wake.

Manila escaped the full force of the typhoon, which was swept by winds reaching a maximum of 45 miles an hour. Heavy rains which

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(P)—The federal trade commission today released its first report on a six-year study of public utilities to mark their publicity material clearly so as to identify its source and purpose.

This recommendation is expected to grow out of the commission's inquiry into utilities. Making the first installment of its final report to congress yesterday, the commission said utilities conducted a propaganda campaign in the United States during the war-time.

Declaring the campaign took every form except "sky writing," the report spoke, among other things, of "statements made by the press and the schools."

GREAT BRITAIN IS

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN
Associated Press Foreign Staff.
LONDON, Nov. 15.—(P)—Great Britain is known today that if Japan rejects her proposal for naval equality "in principle," she will not grant Japan equality in the actual tonnage of their fighting craft.

This indication, from an authoritative source, was contained in a statement that Great Britain still seeks a method of approaching a compromise on the question of a new naval treaty but that she will not go beyond the recognition of equality in principle for Japan.

This decision was made independently by Great Britain some time ago and has nothing to do with any conversations her diplomats engaged in the present preliminary naval parity have had with the representatives of the United States and Japan.

Both the British and Americans here for the conversations said officially that reports that Great Britain was considering an agreement were entirely false. Both delegations said they wished the situation was near the agreement stage but that actually the three powers were just as far from an agreement as they have ever been.

The British last week suggested that the Japanese consider a compromise which would give them

Corsicana Mourns

(An Editorial)

The sudden death of Mr. J. M. Dyer, Sr., Thursday morning cast a cloud of sincere sorrow over the entire community. For many years a successful merchant in this city Mr. Dyer has had a prominent place in the development of Corsicana. He was active in all civic movements for the growth and advancement of the city and a leader in the social and religious activities of the community.

He numbered his friends by the hundreds and those fortunate enough to know him personally and had had the privilege of working with him will feel the loss of his friendship and counsel.

Mr. Dyer was blessed with the happy faculty of making friends. His cheerful personality, reputation for honest dealing and sincerity of purpose brought those who knew him closer and formed staunch bonds of friendship that have lasted through the years.

Corsicana will miss Mr. Dyer. A leader of rare executive ability—strong in his convictions of right and wrong—he was the type of man who would have been a success in any place he might have chosen for his home.

The Sun feels a personal loss in the sudden passing of Mr. Dyer and the entire personnel of this publication joins in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

DALLAS, Nov. 15.—(P)—The American Petroleum Institute heard from Texas last night—the state which Secretary Ickes said was the stumbling block to orderly progress in the oil industry.

Representing the Governor, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, James E. Ferguson, governor himself, told the directors at a dinner arranged by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce that "we are going to put hot oil operators out of business; the means would justify the ends even if we have to hang somebody."

Ferguson explained that the Texas Railroad Commission, which handles oil matters in this state, "is working itself to death" with all the state problems with which it deals and said he was "not surprised that it has not accomplished what we thought necessary."

He said the governor would seek to have the legislature create another commission, possibly dealing exclusively with oil matters. That line of procedure has been the policy of the administration in Texas in recent months.

Ferguson, referring to the request of the congressional oil investigating committee in Oklahoma yesterday for a statement of policy from the API meeting, said his personal opinion was that the secretary of the interior said is "going to go" in the industry and "if nothing is done with reasonable dispatch the government is going to consider you as a public utility and the tradition of the South will go up in the air."

Blames Federal Government.
E. O. Thompson, a member of the commission, said informally that the federal government was really to blame for conditions because the commission requested such an agency as the federal tender board early in 1933.

Included in the loot seized were 18 tires and wheels, eight tires, one automobile, three motorcycles, stolen in Dallas, three automobiles and a quantity of tobacco, gum, coffee, tubes, etc.

A portion of the merchandise was identified as having been stolen recently in Dallas. The remainder of the property was placed in the county jail and Dallas and Corsicana officers were busy checking Thursday morning in an effort to identify the remainder.

No formal complaints had been filed here early Thursday morning but it was indicated that complaints for theft would be filed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(P)—Japan is willing to act as an intermediary between the United States and Manchukuo in an effort to reach an amicable settlement of the diplomatic controversies brought about by Manchukuo's proposed oil monopoly.

Hiroshi Saito, the Japanese ambassador, made this known today after an extended conference with Secretary Hull.

He said newspapermen that while Japan was not responsible for Manchukuo's foreign affairs, and could not meddle in a sovereign nation's affairs, it would, since the United States does not recognize the new state, accept the responsibility of forwarding communications between the two nations.

Saito emphasized that he had not offered the Japanese government's services as a mediator in his conference with Hull, and that his discussion with the secretary had been on far Eastern questions in general.

Saito also told newspapermen that the Japanese naval policy was clear cut and well defined and that he seriously doubted that the Japanese opinion would accept any compromise solution of naval problems, now under discussion in London, which did not provide for equality for the Japanese navy.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(P)—Henry Russell Drowne, 74, retired woolen commission merchant and descendant of an old New York family, his wife and two servants were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed the Drowne five-story town house at 306 West 87th street.

The four were trapped in the house when the fire roared up the wooden front staircase, mushrooming at each floor, and, burned through the roof.

The only survivor of the flames was a wire-haired fox terrier. A fireman found the dog by an open window in the basement burning loudly.

Drowne's body badly burned, was discovered in his third-floor bedroom. Apparently he had attempted to flee the flames, as he was halfway out of bed.

The bodies of the others were found on the top floor and were burned beyond recognition. Neighbors, however, told police that Drowne lived in the house with his wife and two servants, a man and a woman.

The fire was discovered shortly after 5 a. m., when one of the women made her way to a front window on the top floor, and screamed, awakening neighbors.

Firemen fought the fire half an hour before they were able to make their way into the building. Drowne was widely known for his collection of books and en-

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(P)—A supreme court justice will decide today on a new life for 10-year-old Gloria Vanderbilt, heiress to millions.

Whether she will live with her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, or with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, will be determined by Justice F. Carew at a conference he has called for this afternoon with attorneys for both sides.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, fighting charges she is an "untitled" mother for Gloria, is seeking possession of the child, who has been living with Mrs. Whitney since June, 1932. If she does regain custody of her daughter, through her habeas corpus action before Judge Carew, she must provide a different life for Gloria from that which the child led when she traveled with her mother in various parts of Europe.

At the conclusion of seven weeks of testimony before Judge Carew's suit yesterday, Justice Carew issued this statement:

"Mr. Justice Carew decided that the child Gloria Vanderbilt is not to have for the future the life that it had had from the death of its father up till June, 1932."

Questioned about its meaning, he said the statement meant exactly what it says and nothing else. Then he disclosed he had summoned Nathan Burkan, counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, and Herbert C. Smyth, Mrs. Whitney's

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(P)—In a Thanksgiving Day proclamation, President Roosevelt today called upon the American people to "dedicate ourselves anew to work for the betterment of mankind."

The text of the proclamation follows:

"Thus to set aside in the Autumn of each year a day on which to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings of life is a wise and reverent custom, long cherished by our people. It is fitting that we should again observe this custom."

HOLC SUSPENDS CONSIDERATION OF NEW APPLICATIONS

FEAR THAT FUNDS MIGHT BE EXHAUSTED BRINGS
DRASTIC ACTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—The Home Owners' Loan corporation announced today consideration of additional applications for loans will be suspended until further notice because of the fear that funds might be exhausted.

The corporation has more than 400,000 applications pending. In the light of its experience in refinancing mortgages on 560,000 homes which required approximately $2,000,000,000, the corporation board decided today to cease accepting applications until it sees how far the remaining $1,200,000,000 of capital will go.

In view of the fact that applications from loans now in hand and in excess of the present resources of the corporation, said a board statement, "and the continued handling of new applications is interfering seriously with the prompt disposition of those entitled to prior consideration, the board has decided to suspend the consideration of additional applications until further notice."

The remaining $1,200,000,000 at the disposal of the corporation is expected to care for the some 400,000 applications now pending. A large part of them are well advanced in the process of examination and approval and probably will be completed and loans closed by February or March next.

New applications now being filed could not be reached for comment in view of the accumulation of applications previously filed. Under these circumstances the board feels that it is unfair to applicants and to the mortgage lending institutions to continue the review of applications on the supposition that they may ultimately be considered.

"The number of applications filed has been dropping steadily since last spring and the weekly average now is about one-sixth of what it was at the peak," the board said.

He said his brother was a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and was working with the railroad commission's engineering staff.
Last night the victim visited his wife in a Dallas hospital, where she was recuperating from the recent birth of her baby. He was en route back to East Texas at the time of the accident.

Carnival Here All Next Week

The Western States Shows, one of the major carnivals of the season, will arrive in Corsicana Sunday and will open a week's engagement at the old ball park site Monday, November 19.

Don M. Brashers, advance representative, was in Corsicana Thursday making arrangements for the event which will be held under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion.
The Western States Shows carries ten rides and fifteen shows in addition to which three big free acts are presented daily. Also a rodeo performance is included in the daily program.

Mr. Brashers stated that several of the rides will be presented for the first time in Corsicana.

It was also reported in various quarters that a member of the grand jury now in session had intimated that an investigation might be instituted. No official statement from the criminal district attorney's office or from the grand jury has been made as to whether any investigations or indictments were contemplated.

Sheriff Pevehouse said Wednesday he did not know whether the grand jury had considered any investigation or had warned the slot machine owners to remove them.

The marble machines were not suspected it was reported.
When officers arrived at a number of places, the slot machines had been moved.

CASE OF FATHER IN KILLING SON REVERSED TODAY

OLNEY MAN HAD BEEN SENTENCED TO NINETY-NINE YEARS IN PRISON

AUSTIN, Nov. 1. (AP)—The case of Charles S. Richardson, given a 99 years sentence for killing his son Elga, at Olney, Tex., Nov. 1, 1934, was reversed and remanded today by the court of criminal appeals.

The court held that arguments of attorneys for the State were improper. It was the second time Richardson, a former police officer, had been reversed after conviction of murdering his son. The first conviction was set aside on grounds he should have been granted a change of venue.

Young Richardson, a student at North Texas State Teachers college, was shot during an argument with his father. He was at home for the Christmas holidays.
The court affirmed the case of H. L. Cobb, sentenced to 99 years imprisonment for the slaying, in Johnson county, of Thomas B. Gullett. Cobb was convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence. Gullett's charred body was found in the burned ruins of a farmer's barn near Burleson on January 20, 1934. The court held that since there was no error in the record on the face of the indictment the case should be affirmed.

The case of Lister Thompson, given the death penalty in Polk county on conviction of murdering H. L. Cobb, sentenced to 99 years imprisonment for the slaying, in Johnson county, of Thomas B. Gullett. Cobb was convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence. Gullett's charred body was found in the burned ruins of a farmer's barn near Burleson on January 20, 1934. The court held that since there was no error in the record on the face of the indictment the case should be affirmed.

"The charge of the court on insanity was inconsistent with that part of the charge insuring the jury that the appellant had entered a plea of guilty and that he should be convicted," the court's decision read.

The 15 years imprisonment sentence of J. C. Moore, convicted in Stephens county of murder in the death of Charles Hoskins, December 13, 1933, was affirmed. Both men were employees of a pipe line company. Moore's defense was based on a plea of insanity.

GOVERNMENT STILL SPENDING HUGE SUM IN EFFORT REGULATE TROUBLESOME LIQUOR TRAFFIC

By MAX ROYD
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—
The government is spending two-thirds as much to regulate the liquor traffic as it did at the height of efforts to enforce prohibition.

Enforcement activities of the alcohol tax unit are costing about $10,000,000 a year. The alcohol control administration, charged with supervision of manufacturers and wholesalers, requires $270,000 more.

The cost of federal enforcement during prohibition ranged from $2,069,000 in 1920 to $15,547,000 in 1932.
None of these figures takes into account the expense of rum chasers by the coast guard. Its expenditures have been curtailed sharply since repeal.

Secretary Morgenthau has ordered his tax unit to conduct unceasing war on the bigger bootleggers. New enforcement devices have been developed. One

Former Head Of Express Company Is Found Dead

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Livingston Wells Fargo, 74, member of the family that founded the Wells-Fargo Express Company in gold rush days of '49, was found dead in his rooms at the Chicago Club last night, apparently the victim of a heart attack.

The manager of the hotel said Fargo must have anticipated his death since recently he gave him the name of a sister to notify in case he died.

Until his retirement 20 years ago to manage his extensive holdings of mining property on the Mesquite Iron range north of Duluth, Fargo was vice president of the old American Express Company, the successor to the Wells-Fargo Express Company.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Frederick R. Wheeler, Redwood City, Calif., and Mrs. Henry C. Lord, Brookline, Mass.

LATEST BUILDING STATISTICS SHOW MARKED INCREASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Latest building statistics, showing a marked expansion in operations throughout the country, attracted much attention in Wall Street today in view of the belief in some quarters that construction holds the key to the next phase of economic recovery.

The first convincing signs of an upward trend in building since the boom year of 1925 were noted by observers of the industry.

On the stock exchange a boom in building shares reflects the significance attached to the construction activity as well as hopes the administration would proceed with proposals for housing on an ambitious scale.

Some Wall Street students of the industry see a parallel with what happened in Great Britain the past few years. Much of England's recovery progress has been ascribed to the relatively high level of building activity there.

A compilation of building permits by Dun and Bradstreet, Dec. for October disclosed an increase of 40.9 per cent over September of 42.9 per cent over the total for October, 1933. The normal seasonal September to October increase is about 2.5 per cent.

Permits covering new building and improvements last month totaled $7,446,293 compared with $28,567,925 in September and $26,198,342 in October, 1933. The figures embraced operations in 215 cities.

For the first ten months, the total was $269,751,129 against $260,739,318 in the like period last year, a gain of 15 per cent.

Joe Chapman, Jr., the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chapman, Sr., was doing splendidly this afternoon at the P. and S. Hospital. The young man was born there Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gauding became the parents of a fine baby boy Thursday morning at the P. and S. Hospital. Both the baby and mother were resting all right this afternoon.

BODY FOUND NEAR NASHVILLE THAT OF LONG MISSING GIRL

DOROTHY ANN DISTELHURST HAD BEEN MURDERED AND BURIED IN SHALLOW GRAVE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14. (AP)—A nude body found in a shallow grave on the outskirts of Nashville was identified today as that of Dorothy Ann Distelhurst, six-year-old girl kidnapped as she was en route home from kindergarten on September 19.

The announcement of the identification was made by Attorney General J. Carlton Loser who said the child was murdered.

Dr. Herman Spitz, pathologist, and Dr. Leonard F. Pogue, dentist and orthodontist, examined the body and joined the attorney general in the announcement that the identification was positive.

"The child was murdered," Loser said. "Her skull at the left side was crushed by a hammer or other blunt instrument. A rag was found in her mouth, possibly used as a gag to prevent outcry."

The girl's father, A. E. Distelhurst, who had been in New York kidnapers and pay over the $5,000 demanded for the child's return, left New York this morning by plane after being notified of the discovery of the body. He had not been advised of the identification until the prosecuting attorney and the doctors.

The identification was established definitely by the filling in the second upper right baby molar. Dr. Pogue said. He had filled Dorothy Ann's tooth shortly before she disappeared and said the filling in the tooth was his work.

Identification Made.
The body was found on the Davidson county hospital grounds late yesterday afternoon in that of Dorothy Ann Distelhurst. While the corpse is in such a state of decomposition as to render identification by the medical authorities impossible, every other fact in connection with the matter points to the conclusion that the body is that of the girl.

General Loser's statement follows:
The nude body found on the Davidson county tuberculosis hospital grounds late yesterday afternoon is that of Dorothy Ann Distelhurst. While the corpse is in such a state of decomposition as to render identification by the medical authorities impossible, every other fact in connection with the matter points to the conclusion that the body is that of the girl.

Doctors Herman Spitz, pathologist, and Leonard F. Pogue, children's dentist and orthodontist, specialists in their respective professions, after a careful examination of the teeth report that the identification is certain and positive.

"The child was murdered. Her skull at the left side was crushed by a hammer or other blunt instrument. A rag was found in her mouth, possibly used as a gag to prevent outcry. Sheriff's deputies, police, department of justice agents and investigators are now working together in an attempt to learn the motive for the homicide, as well as the party or parties perpetrating the crime."

Dr. Pogue said that "the identification was established definitely by the filling in the second upper right baby molar."

Dr. Pogue had filled Dorothy Ann's tooth shortly before she disappeared last September 19 on her way home from kindergarten and said he recognized the filling in the tooth of the corpse as his work.

Although he also pulled two of Dorothy Ann's teeth and some teeth were missing in the corpse, Dr. Pogue said he did not use this as a means of identification.

The conference bringing about the positive identification was of the Blue Diamond Oil Corporation which had been granted an injunction in Travis county district court restraining the commission from requiring tenders for transportation of refined oil products in the East Texas field.

The court affirmed the lower court's action in granting the injunction on grounds that proper notice and a hearing had not been had, but it held the commission had the power to require tenders by conforming to the law with reference to notice and hearing.

RELIEF FAMILIES RECEIVING BETTER MEDICAL ATTENTION

OTHER MIDDLE CLASS FAMILIES, HOWEVER, FAIL GET PROPER ATTENTION

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Families on relief rolls have been enabled to obtain some degree of medical attention but a great many families off relief rolls hesitate to call a physician until seriously ill. Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer of Alabama, said in an address today before the American Public Health Association, Southern branch.

The health association gathering was one of the sectional meetings of the Southern Medical Association, which divided into many specialized sectional groups for the second day's session of its 28th annual convention.

"Those people on relief rolls have been enabled to obtain some degree of medical attention, as a rule, but those are a great many, not on relief, who have been so affected by the depression that they hesitate to call a physician until seriously ill. This is quite apparent in two epidemics in my state, no physician having been called until typhoid was running rampant. Prompt discovery would, no doubt, have materially lessened the extent of the epidemic."

A child in the Mexican state of Nuevo Leon, as in other parts of Mexico and throughout the world generally, has a much greater chance for life after it has reached the age of one year than it has during the first year of life. Dr. Eusebio Guajardo, dean and professor of pediatrics at the University of Nuevo Leon School of Medicine in Monterrey, told the meeting.

The mortality rate for children under one year of age in Nuevo Leon now ranges from 18 to 20 per cent. Dr. Guajardo said, and the death rate has been greatly decreased during the past five years.

Most of the crimes committed today and beginning years ago when the perpetrators were children, and most of the divorces today had their origin when the principals were in the nursery stage, Dr. W. W. Young of Atlanta, Harter of Waxahatchie, newly elected president.

Dr. J. C. Hardy of Baylor college told the body that the recent Baptist general convention at San Antonio had approved the proposed unification plan.

Boiling Sea Of Quick Lime Sent Firemen Hospital

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—
(AP)—A boiling sea of quick lime sent 22 firemen to the hospital today.

One hundred tons of lime stored in paper sacks turned a trucking company warehouse into a virtual volcano when torrential rains overtopped storm drains and water flooded waist deep over the lime.

Sacks above the water line had burst into flame and filled the building with smoke and fumes before firemen arrived. In adjoining rooms were 100,000 sacks of lime.

Greasing their bodies and donning gas masks and hip boots, firemen fought the conflagration in short shifts for hours. At first they turned their pressure hoses on the burning sacks, but this only added to the fury of the boiling lime. In the end all flaming sacks were dumped into the lava-like mass.

The lime ate quickly through the rubber boots and burned some firemen's badly torn clothing peeled off their feet with their socks.

Latest Attempt to Unite Baptists Is Failure at Dallas

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—Another attempt at unification of Texas Baptists failed here yesterday when messengers of the Baptist Missionary association voted 50 to 1 against the proposal.

Attempts have been made for the last thirty-seven years to bring about the unification. The Rev. A. C. Hinkle of Lockhart, chairman of the unification committee, charged the vote had been "roadblocked through" by opponents to the plan, but smilingly apologized at the suggestion of Dr. J. H. Harper of Waxahatchie, newly elected president.

BAYLOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO MRS. KATE M'KIE FOR BENEFACTIONS

CHAPEL HOUR AT UNIVERSITY MONDAY DEVOTED TO HONORING CORNICANAN

The following taken from Tuesday morning's Waco News-Tribune giving incidents of the honoring of Mrs. Kate McKie of Corsicana at the Monday chapel hour of Baylor University for her many benefactions to the University will be read with keen interest in her home town, where she has so long resided and is so universally beloved for her many lovable traits of character aside from her monetary benefactions:

Official recognition of the large part she has had in promoting the welfare of Baylor University through the years was given Mrs. Kate McKie of Corsicana in the chapel hours Monday one of the many contributions to the institution. She gave $100,000 to the Greater Baylor campaign a few years ago, and has been a regular and liberal contributor to her alma mater for a number of years, he said.

Friends Never Forget.

Baylors would not be here today except for the fact that its friends have never forgotten it during its nearly 100 years of existence. President Neff declared in announcing the purpose of the service in recognizing Mrs. McKie. "Waco hall is the gift of the citizenship of Waco; the library building is the gift of the late F. L. Carroll of Waco; the science hall the gift of George W. Carroll of Beaumont; and the Memorial dormitory the gift of the Baptist women of Texas."

"There is not a brick in any building but what has been given to the institution. Some of these bricks have been bathed with tears and the blood of sacrifice, while all of them have been dedicated with prayer."

"The first benefaction to the institution, made before the location of even a name, was that of $1000 by Judge R. E. B. Baylor, whose name it later assumed. Houston contributed $380. A few years later General Sam Houston added a contribution of $230. There has been a long list of worthy contributions in between those two early donations, and the latest large gift by Mrs. McKie of Corsicana, which made possible the liquidation of the indebtedness on the Memorial dormitory. Of the total cost of $234,000 entailed in the construction of the institution, Mrs. McKie contributed approximately one-third. Accordingly, we are asking Mrs. McKie, an alumna of this institution, to bring greetings to this student body, and say anything that may be in her heart. You may not be able to understand what she says in this large auditorium, but her life speaks louder than words. I want you to see her and to applaud her character and service."

Mrs. McKie was able to make herself heard more distinctly than the president had anticipated, however, and she assured the students she was glad to see such a large group of young people in Baylor seeking to prepare themselves for lives of sacrifice to the state, society and church.

After a few references to her own student days in Baylor, when she did not enjoy nearly so large liberties as do the students of today, she declared, "I do not have much to say to you, for I have undertaken to let my money talk for me. I should like to suggest to you that money can be made to talk, and all money also walks and many times flies. I want to make the plea to you young people that when you begin to make money you do not throw it away. Accumulate what

Wortham PTA Club Has Been Organized; Officers Elected

WORTHAM, Nov. 14.—(Spl.)—The organization of the new P. T. A. club of Wortham is well under way with the following officers: President, Mrs. E. W. Wilford; vice-presidents, Madames A. D. Morrow, Elmo Longbottom, F. W. Horn, Vera Brown, C. A. Stubbs, J. T. Drumwright; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Bates; recording secretary, C. K. Bounds; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Archie Weaver; parliamentarian, Mrs. Love; publicity chairman, Mrs. Olan Beasley.

Accompanying Mrs. McKie to the chapel service were Mrs. R. B. Spencer, Baylor trustee, Mrs. S. P. Brooks, chairman, Mrs. W. Vining, treasurer, and Mrs. J. M. Dawson, field representative of the dormitory campaign committee, and Mrs. J. C. Lattimore.

Dr. J. M. Dawson of the First Baptist church read the scripture lesson and at the conclusion of the service offered prayer. Dr. J. Rush Powell, associate superintendent of the public schools of St. Louis, who is visiting his mother, Mrs. J. B. Powell, 705 South Ninth street, was presented by President Neff as one of his former fellow students in Baylor in the nineties. Dr. Powell expressed his appreciation of the growth of Baylor in the size of its student body and its physical equipment and was glad to note, he said, that the spirit of those early days had been preserved through all the years. He paid high tribute to the instructors of the days when he and President Neff, the late Dr. S. P. Brooks and others, were students here, and said he had never been able to get away from the impression that the personalities of those men and women made upon him. Another of his fellow students, Eugene Wood, was recognized, as was Mrs. Powell, mother of the guest.

LARGE ATTENDANCE UPON FROST BANQUET TUESDAY EVENING

Over 100 men and women attended the Centennial banquet at the Frost Baptist church Tuesday evening, and enjoyed an interesting and entertaining program featured by musical numbers, readings and talks.

The menu consisted of tomato cocktail, baked chicken, creamed potatoes, green peas, pickles, celery, cranberry jelly, coffee, rolls, pear salad and cherry pie. E. D. McCormick was toastmaster. The banquet hall was decorated in patriotic colors and Texas and United States flags.

The banquet was given in order to discuss beautification of the state in connection with the Texas Centennial in 1938. Mrs. J. M. Tullis, county chairman of highway beautification had an important part in the program, and all the speakers praised her work in fostering this work.

Following is the program that was followed:

Master of Ceremonies—E. D. McCormick.
Planist—Miss Miriam Smith.
Invocation—Rev. D. P. Cagle.
Reading—"Texas, The Bluebonnet Land"—Miss Bertie Crow.
Solo—"Beautiful Texas"—Rev. W. W. Pittman.
Introduction of Speakers—By Mrs. Bruce Gilliam; Mrs. J. M. Tullis.
Talk—"Beautification"—Mr. Harry Howard.
Talk—"Centennial"—Mr. Lowry Martin.
Song—"The Eyes of Texas"—(all standing).

Tennessee Central Railroad Is Not In Default on RFC Loan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—The Reconstruction Corporation today said it had incorrectly included the Tennessee Central Railroad in a recent list of roads in default to the Corporation.

The list was made public by Chairman Jesse H. Jones, along with an announcement that the corporation was going to study the financial position of railroad borrowers from the RFC.

The Tennessee Central is not in default to the Corporation.

Gay Divorcee Opens With Midnight Show at Palace Theatre Saturday

Besides being a remarkably funny, gay and brisk romantic comedy, RKO-Radio's spectacular musical, "The Gay Divorcee" presents strikingly unusual settings and a bevy of beauties who combine charming femininity and extreme daring.

Architecturally, the settings are more like a fantasy than anything else, particularly in the conception, by studio draftsman, of a hotel as it may be fifty years from now.

The exterior, covering a floor space of some 22,000 square feet, resembles a futuristic drawing. The interiors are even more exciting, with fur-lined bedrooms, frosted glass mantel pieces large enough to dance upon, and the most amazing bed of yesterday, today or tomorrow.

This couch, which is occupied by Ginger Rogers in one of the comedy's most amusing sequences, will never be practical until moths are entirely exterminated. It is upholstered with long white fur, from head to foot, and bears a spread to match, so that the whole thing resembles a polar bear — a marvelous setting for one so vivacious as Miss Rogers.

The girls, who in the film perform an Adagio ensemble while completely attired in full evening dress as opposed to the usual and safer semi-nudity, were selected by three unbiased beauty judges from thousands of applicants. Statistically, they are said to represent, for beauty and for talent, one girl out of every 20,000.

"The Gay Divorcee" which co-stars Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, was adapted for the screen from Astaire's international stage hit of the same title, which scored 288 performances in New York and ran for six months in London.

Featured are Alice Brady and Edward Everett Horton, while William Austin, Erick Rhodes and Eric Blore are other comedy players in the cast.

The Gay Divorcee opens with a midnight show Saturday night at the Palace theatre. It will run through Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

ECONOMIC SECURITY ADVOCATED BY HEAD ADVISORY COUNCIL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—Economic security was advocated today by Frank P. Graham, chairman of President Roosevelt's economic security advisory council, to prevent the nation from drifting "into unregulated self destruction."

Graham opened conference of business, labor, social service and economics leaders called to consider how economic security could best be forwarded by the federal government.

"The old drift of society and the nations," he said, "led to the following results: The insecurity of peace in a world of armaments; the loss of homes in a society built upon homes; wide hunger in a land of plenty; child labor and sweat shops in the midst of unemployment; vast unemployment in a time of universal need; poverty and dependence after lives of faithful work, and disillusionment and despair in a world of youth and opportunity."

"Americans who, with scientific knowledge and mechanical devices, have won a physical mastery of this great continent, will not long stand baffled and afraid along the social frontiers of a civilization which has not mastered the hazards of modern society."

Graham emphasized, however, that the goal of an old order should be maintained, in creating a new.

Slow drizzles continued this morning at San Angelo and a large region around there. In a two-day period the San Angelo section received total precipitation of 3.48 inches. The minimum temperature there was 53 today.

Auto Swept From Causeway

A sudden rise in North Concho river last night swept an automobile off the Sixth street causeway at San Angelo and its occupants, O. A. Carr, Humble Oil Company agent, and Homer Gandy, an Humble employee, narrowly escaped drowning.

Heavy showers throughout the Laredo sections last night broke a dry period dating back to mid-September. Laredo had a total rainfall of one inch. Heavier downpours were reported to the north, south and east. Robstown had two inches. Crops will be greatly aided.

South Texas points having rain since yesterday included Corpus Christi, Beeville, Alice, Sinton, Driscoll and San Antonio. The latter had a low temperature today of 62 and rainfall aggregating .90 of an inch. San Antonio received more than an inch of rain. There was some damaging hail on the south side. Houston reported a low temperature of 59 degrees.

Storm At Fallurrias

Austin had 4 of an inch of rain and the weather was cool. Denton reported 43 of an inch of rain. It helped grain crops and some around Denton, but much of the crops already had been lost due to dry weather.

The temperature at Beaumont fell from 50 degrees to a minimum of 54 during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m. today.

Olney had one-half inch of rain today and farmers were jubilant. The wildest electrical storm in many years, accompanied by a virtual cloud burst, broke the Fallurrias section last night, breaking a drought that had burned pastures and stopped all farm work. Fall stones, some described "as large as baseballs," fell a few miles southwest of town, killing outbuildings, damaging roofs and windows. Trees were stripped of leaves.

The old ranch home of Ed C. Lassiter, a landmark, had its roof and windows demolished, along with those of barns and stables.

THE ORIGINAL MID-CONTINENT OIL FIELD IN 1898

Within the short span of 38 years the oil industry has changed from lowly trading in "illuminating oil" to one of the greatest factors in modern commerce and business. Today more than 3,000 leaders of the oil fraternity representing virtually the entire world are concluding their fifteenth annual meeting in Dallas and are confronted with problems that could not be foreseen when the above photograph was taken in November, 1898, of a section of the Corsicana oil field covering a portion of the eastern portion of the city.

At the time the above picture was made, the production of the Corsicana field, the original mid-continent producing area, was approximately 1650 barrels per day from some 150 wells. The first refinery west of the Mississippi, later to become the Magnolia Petroleum Company, was nearing completion under the leadership of J. S. Cullinan and others. The first shipment of refined products was made from Corsicana in February, 1899.

Some idea of the infancy of the now gigantic industry may be derived from the following excerpt from Mr. Cullinan's own description of the trial surrounding the men who started the local company:

"They notified me (referring to the men who had agreed to finance the undertaking) that they had examined reports of geologists and other scientists, and that these reports showed that, owing to peculiar formation of Texas oil, petroleum and gas in paying quantities would never be found there. They became alarmed at these reports and refused to finance the operations."

Just a quarter of a century later, the Powell field set a new record for flush production from a single field with many of the wells under rigid restrictions because of lack of pipeline facilities. Many of wells were within a short distance of the early production.

And as to the oil "in paying quantities," the Texas crude production today, thirty-six years later, is the most disturbing single influence in the industry; overproduction, "hot oil," by-passers, proration, tenders, marketing agreements, and a score of other words would not be a part of the industry's vocabulary today if it had not been for the Texas fields.

It is also interesting to note that many of the wells shown in above picture are still producing oil and have produced almost daily quotas since they were drilled more than a third of a century ago.

The same basic problems of the industry remain—distribution. In the beginning the task was difficult because of the limited uses of the "flowing gold"; today there are so many uses and such a ready market for crude and refined products that "hot oil" has almost achieved the national recognition long reserved for "bootlegging" of other commodities more notably those with alcoholic content.

sures may be taken to stimulate heavy industry and just how his unemployment insurance plan will work.

The President looked forward with keen interest to the Tennessee Valley tour. About 12,000 men are at work there building dams in the Tennessee river and tributaries to provide power, flood control, navigation and new fields of work for persons drawn from unprofitable land.

He has expressed the hope that this experiment may prove the forerunner of more balanced development on a nation-wide scale. Already similar efforts are in progress on the Columbia and Missouri rivers in the northwest and at the gigantic Boulder Canyon dam nearing completion on the Colorado river in the southwest.

body was found in a shallow grave on the outskirts of Nashville, and was identified by a physician and a dentist as that of the missing girl.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—(P)—The kidnapping and murder of Dorothy Ann Distelhurst presented a new challenge to the law today—a challenge that was snapped up by authorities with a pledge to an unceasing search for the perpetrator.

The father himself, A. E. Distelhurst, stood ready to aid the United States and Tennessee authorities in their quest of the killer who abducted his six-year-old daughter, put her to death apparently with one or more blows to the head, stripped her body and buried it in a shallow grave.

The body, identified definitely as that of the missing child, was released last night to her parents. District Attorney General J. Carlton Loser said no inquest would be held. A coroner's jury, he said, could establish only the known fact that Drowne was murdered by a "person unknown."

With the ransom arrangements that led the father to New York dismissed as the work of a crank and the necessity for caution in contacting the kidnaper lifted, officers swung into action over a cold trail.

"We have no lead at all," said the district attorney general. "We must start from scratch."

But he promised a thorough search for the person or persons responsible, vowing that the investigation will be continued just as long as necessary.

15 months to do what we suggested. We have no power to enforce interstate commerce regulations and it is up to them."

Thompson indicated that he might have further remarks to make when he testifies before the congressional committee here tomorrow. He called attention to the fact that the court of civil appeals in Austin yesterday held the right of the commission to require tenders for movement of refined products. The commission has called a hearing for Nov. 26 for the purpose of rehearing orders requiring such tenders.

Declines to Comment. Thompson declined to comment directly on Ickes' speech after the oil administrator finished, saying, with a smile, "he is still our guest."

The independent refiners of East Texas also had their word to add to the general discussion. Jules Constantine, president of the Independent Refiners' Association of East Texas, issued a statement expressing surprise at reports indicating Ickes looked with disfavor on a purchasing agreement between the refiners and major

In Dallas county and that charges of receiving and concealing stolen property would be filed in Judge Sam B. Jordan's court during the day.

Two of the men were arrested by city officers Wednesday morning at a filling station on North Beaton street in possession of an automobile stolen in Dallas Tuesday night. Information concerning the robbery had been received by police radio broadcast. The raids followed questioning of the two men arrested.

companies, as it is now constituted.

Constantine said 99 per cent of the refining capacity of the field had signed contracts for reinvestment of the agreement and said the refiners "now stand ready and willing to further cooperate with the state and federal tender board and the administrator in order that the stabilization program may be carried out for the benefit of the industry."

SECURITY

They pointed once more to what has been called "peace pact" ratified at the American Bankers association convention.

The president's statement that relief and getting the "economic system to function" are the first tasks, turned the spotlight on new plans that are being worked out. Secretary Ickes, writing what many consider a significant article in the current issue of the magazine "Today," hinted that FWA may expand its public works program enormously, spending many more billions "in a continued effort to take men from relief and put them into industry."

Among the possibilities he mentioned: rural electrification, the elimination of grade crossings, better housing, a transcontinental superhighway and flood control. Some of them he conceived, not as immediate projects but long term possibilities.

Unemployment Insurance. "No one can reasonably contend," said the FWA chief, "that the standard of living in this country is so high that we can afford to require the employed portion of our people permanently to support the unemployed in idleness or require the employed portion permanently to divide their work with the unemployed."

On unemployment insurance, President Roosevelt told the several hundred students of social problems who attended the conference that he believes the system should be a "co-operative federal-state undertaking."

For the administration of the funds, he asserted, the states are the "logical units." Since state laws will be needed and most legislatures will convene in January, he urged the social workers to make your plans accordingly.

NOTICE

The policy of the Corsicana Daily Sun and Semi-Weekly Morning Light of publishing obituary sketches without cost will be discontinued immediately. In the future such notices will be published at regular advertising rates. Practically every paper in the state has charged for such notices for a number of years and the Sun and Light are among the last to adopt such a policy.

Economic conditions, short-er working hours in the editorial department and increased costs of production cause the publishers to take this step.

CORSICANA, TEX., NOV. 16, 1934

PRIMED FOR A RISE.

Business indices indicate that conditions are gradually approaching the point at which a major improvement will get into swing.

Activity in consumer lines, as typified by department store sales, has made a far better showing during recent months than industrial production generally—a situation which is explained largely by the definite expansion of public buying power this year.

Employment has been greater than in 1933, wage rates somewhat higher, and dividend and interest payments larger, while farm income is at the highest level since 1930. Estimated farm income, as computed by the Standard Statistics Company for 1934, recently has been revised slightly downward, but still is placed at more than 28 per cent above the 1933 total.

Meanwhile, the slight upturn in the October industrial production index appears to be the result primarily of a snapback in the textile industries following the September strike. Nevertheless, indications are that prevailing rates of consumption of manufactured products are definitely in excess of current output in several lines.
Thus, the basis apparently is being prepared for a later upturn, probably during the early months of 1935, in which most industries will participate.

AS NATIONS SEE EACH OTHER

An educator from India,
now studying in New York,
reports that his people have topsy-turvy notions about the people of the United States. They know Mae West and Babe Ruth, but not Jane Addams or John Dewey. They know of the Chicago stock yards and New York slums, but little about the Rocky Mountains and other scenic beauties of America. John Dillinger and Al Capone they could place more readily than Dr.
Millikan or former Justice
Holmes.

This is all very sad. No doubt the Indians are an ignorant people. But what shall be said of Americans?

Our national publicity
must be very poor if it can convey no better picture of American life to interested foreigners. But after all, we treat them no worse than ourselves. Stop people on street corners in any city
in this country and ask them to tell what they know of Mae West and Babe Ruth—or should it
now be Dizzy Dean?—of Jane Addams and John
Dewey and Holmes and Millikan. Conscience compels an honest person to admit that they would probably know more about the movie and baseball stars than about the social worker, the educator, the judge and the physicist. And when it comes to American knowledge of India—but it will be better not to go into that.

There are waves of diamond-buying, but the most cheering is the increased demand for them now for drills, dies and other mechanical uses. The present diamond market may be a business barometer worth noting.

Prophecies of business
disaster, by scaring people,
fulfill themselves oftener
than prophecies of business success.

SWEET CREATIONS FOR MEN

(Men will soon be wearing red hats and other gay colors.—Fashion note.)

"Red's a most becoming color.
You're the type to wear it, too!
Paunchy men need something duller.
But not handsome men, like
you.
This will stand all sorts of
weather.
And it's such a cut design.
With this bit of peacock feather
it's adorable, divine!"

"Here's a lovely shade of yellow.
Very chic and ultra smart.
I wouldn't do for every fellow.
It's a perfect work of art.
It would make some men look bigger.
Which of course would never do.
But you're such a handsome figure.
It is just the thing for you."

"Here's another grand creation.
Done in dainty sea-shell pink.
Have no fear or hesitation.
It is manlier than you think.
It may seem a little daring.
With its splash of ribbon gay.
But the best-dressed men are wearing
These exclusive hats today."

Nok I've dropped this hint to mother:
Keep my old hats on the shelf.
I may never buy another.
No I'll need them all myself.
New colored hats they'll sell me.
For it's murder I should do
if a hat clerk dared to tell me
"That's adorable on you!"

INSURANCE OF DEPOSITS

In the proposal of Mr.
Crowley for a change in the system of federal deposit insurance which he administers, conservative bankers as well as others whose concern is for our banking system will find reassurance. The insurance at present is limited in the amount of $5-000 for each account, but that is merely the prelude to a plan which, under existing law, would come in to effect next year. It calls for the full insurance of all deposits up to $10,000, insurance up to 75 per cent of those between that figure and $50,000, and up to 50 per cent in excess of $50,000.

In his address before the bankers, Mr. Crowley proposed that the present
maximum of $5,000 be continued as a permanent policy and that a definite limit be placed on the extent to which sound banks
may be assessed in order to pay off depositors in institutions which have failed.
If this recommendation is approved by congress when it reconvenes, the insurance plan will be greatly strengthened and that phase of it which has caused conservative bankers most concern will be corrected.

Though opposed in principle to government insurance schemes, many of these bankers have accepted the present limited plan
as a necessary measure, in view of the severe blow
dealt to public confidence
by the bank panic of February-March, 1933. What they have strongly criticized has been the unlimited liability which would be imposed on conservatively managed institutions
by the more ambitious plan
due to take effect next year.

That the administration
is now prepared to scrap
this plan in favor of the existing system offers further evidence of its willingness to consider the bankers' point of view. The change can be made without detriment to the interest of the small depositor.
For, as Mr. Crowley pointed out, a guarantee up to $5,000 fully protects 97
out of every 100 insured
depositors.

When the American Legion campaigns for universal draft and no profits in time of war it is met more than half way by a sympathetic public. Immediate payment of the cash bonus
is something else.

The Union Pacific train which has just hung up a new trans-continental record attained its highest speed in Nebraska, which is another Western mark
for the East to shoot at.

No, China, we don't want to buy your silver. We never did like money with holes in it.

Well, religious regimen-tation, at least, is "out" in Germany.

—By Clive Weed

AN INTERNATIONAL IRRITANT

Unsettled international questions have no pity for the repose of nations. There have been several such within the last century of European diplomacy.

The perennial dispute about Turkey, Russia and the Balkans; what to do with Egypt; the Schleswig-Holstein difficulty; Alsac
and Lorraine; the Suez Canal and the Panama Canal—these are sample problems which could not be solved by one country
alone, but required international action. They did not necessarily mean or bring on war, but they were constant subjects of anxious discussion. They embittered the relations between nations, even when they did not break them off altogether. They kept people uncertain, irritated and apprehensive. In a word, they constituted a sort of international nuisance,
which it finally became the common interest to abate.

If one were asked today
to lay his hand upon the chief cause of international friction, dislike and confusion, he would single out
the war debt issue, with all that is involved in finally disposing of it.

Sixteen years after the war finds the matter still indeterminate. Until the war debts are disposed of
there will be an obstacle to a good understanding and friendly relations
among the nations of the world. They do not threaten war, but they do destroy peace—at least, peace of mind. Good feeling is impaired. Suspicious and jealousies are awakened.
In a word, a source of irritation has been located,
and must be disinfected if it is not to breed blood-poisoning or prolonged disease.

BABE RUTH IN TOKYO.

American and Japanese statesmen may get on each other's nerves, but the common people of the two countries get along all right. The Japanese welcome given Babe Ruth and his fellow players of the American league is amazing.

No American heroes marching down Broadway
ever got a heartier reception than these invading Americans when they reached the Japanese capital. Their progress was greeted with continuous cheers from scores of thousands of yellow baseball fans. Wherever they appeared, together or separately, they found the same friendly enthusiasm and admiration. Their games

TEXANS SPENT MORE MONEY FOR FOOD IN PAST TWELVE MONTHS

CLASSIFICATIONS DRAWING GREATEST PROPORTION EXPENDITURES CHANGE

A shift in classifications drawing the greatest proportion of expenditures occurred between 1929
and 1933 with the food group replacing the automotive group in the interim according to the final returns for the Texas Retail Census of American Business for 1933
released today by Director William L. Austin, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

Showing for the first time significant changes in the relative importance of the various kinds of retail business since 1929, food stores, general merchandise stores, filling stations, and drug stores
increased in relative proportions.
The food group, which in 1929 accounted for 17.1 per cent of total sales, advanced to first place with 22.1 per cent; restaurants gained a full point to reach 4.8 per cent.
The general merchandise group (department stores, dry goods stores, variety and general merchandise stores) had a total of 13.1 in 1929, and in 1933 reached 15.9 in total sales. Filling stations increased from 4.6 per cent to 7.5 per cent, and drug stores
from 4.7 per cent to 5.3 per cent.
The automotive group, including filling stations, showed a decline of 1.4 from the 1929 levels.

Total sales showed a decline
from $2,045,020,000 in 1929 to $965-561,000 in 1933. Those groups which show the greatest decrease in relative importance since 1929,
and which partly account for the 52.7 per cent drop in total retail sales include apparel stores, farmer's supplies and country general stores, motor vehicles dealers and lumber, building and hardware stores.

The sales summary for the state in 1933 shows: food group $213,343,000; restaurant group $44-763,000; farmers' supplies and country general stores $34,055,000;
general merchandise group $153-366,000; apparel group $56,028,000;
automotive (excluding filling stations) $153,523,000; filling stations $71,739,000; furniture and household group $36,473,000; lumber, building, and hardware $64-172,000; other retail stores $87-628,000. Total sales $965,561,000.

The final report further bears
out the employment trend indicated in the preliminary series released recently, and shows a substantial increase from a low of 122,645 in February to a final 165,972 in December.

Comparison of Reports

Comparisons of the 1929 and in the Meipi Shrine Park, which seats 60,000, were sold out three weeks ahead.

A stadium in Osaka, with a capacity of 80,000, is sold out for the games they will play there.

Japan is as baseball-mad
as America. Possibly more so. It has no professional ball, but it has thousands of amateur teams and there is a ball game going on most of the time in every vacant lot. The teams playing the visiting Americans are selected from the first-rank amateurs.
Surely these two nations should be able to understand each other and cooperate in matters of more serious import.

1933 reports bring more interest- ing figures on the retail distri- bution to light. The number of stores showed a 1.5 per cent in- crease with a total of 67,914 in 1933 compared with 66,918 in 1929. The average number of full-time employees last year was 111,080 compared with 100,308 in 1929; part-time workers showed an in- crease with 27,277 compared with 23,039 for 1929. The number of proprietors showed an increase of 4.2 with 72,403 compared to 69- 470 in 1929. Payrolls, not includ- ing proprietors' compensations, showed a total of $94,881,000 in 1933 compared with $186,081,000 for full-time workers; part-time employees received $7,059,000 in 1933 compared with $5,880,000 in the previous figures.

The survey gives Navarro county
a total of 533 stores with a total amount of sales of $6,021-000; proprietors number 586; full-time employees averaged 552 and part-time workers 47 for the year.
In the breakdown of the statistics
Corsicana was credited with a population of 15,202, a total of 286 stores with total sales of $4-283,000; proprietors number 261;
full-time employees averaged 461;
total payrolls were $454,000, with part-time workers receiving $36-000.

The stores credited to Corsicana and their annual sales by group follow: Food stores 77,
sales $1,292,000; eating places 85,
sales $173,000; farmer's supplies
and country stores 5, sales $85-
000; general merchandise group 13, sales $665,000; apparel and shoe group 18, sales $278,000; automotive group 31, sales $647,000;
filling stations 32, sales $255,000;
furniture, household, radio group 8, sales $230,000; lumber, building, hardware group 16, sales $329,000;
drug stores 13, sales $211,000;
other stores 18, sales $118,000.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse
Writing from her home in Pes-turus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaFramboise says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Because so many people know from having used it that Black-Draught
is a good, purely vegetable laxative,
millions of packages of it are sold
every year.

PIONEER RESIDENT HUBBARD COMMUNITY WAS BURIED SUNDAY

HUBBARD, Nov. 13.—(Spl.)— Funeral services for W. A. Putman, age 80 years, pioneer resident of this community, who died Saturday morning after a short illness, were held from the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Masons had charge of the rites at the grave.
Mr. Putman was engaged in the dry goods business for many years
prior to retiring several years ago.
He was active in the Methodist church and was regarded as one of the outstanding Methodist laymen in Central Texas.
Surviving are his wife and a number of other relatives.

COL. W. C. HARLEE
AUTHOR "KINFOLKS"
IN THREE VOLUMES
OFFICER OF MARINE CORPS
& COUSIN OF J. S. HARLEE
OF THIS CITY

"Kinfolks" is a publication prepared by Colonel William Curry Harlee, of the U. S. Marine Corps, and many collaborators. It is published by its author and distributed by its printers, Harlee & Co., 281 Lafayette street, New Orleans, La., for $10 for the entire work of three well bound volumes of nearly 3,000 pages.

"Kinfolks" treats exhaustively, as far as available records and information preserved by families are concerned, the ancestral families, Leake, Buck, Crump, Gower, MacLin, and Clark, of Virginia, Harlee, Cade, Fulmore, Richardson, Bethes, and Robertson, of Virginia; McQueen, Adair, Walker, Gooden, Hensgen, Brown (several separate branches), and Dickey, of the Carolinas, and Curry and Kemp, of Florida, and a considerable detail the families connected with marriage with them and those which sprang from them, and traces these and connected families and their descendants in their migrations throughout the Southern states, in each of which there are now thousands of descendants from pioneer settlers in each state.

Their descendants spread into the states which formed the Southern Confederacy and have remained in their beloved Southland, very few having removed to Northern or Western states. There are but few communities in the South without descendants of these ancestral families.

The text of "Kinfolks" is prepared from authentic and reliable source material, mainly of wills, grants, deeds, marriage records, cemetery inscriptions, family records in Bibles, old letters, and other family records preserved for generations.

The publication includes over 200 pages of old portraits, generally four to a page, and of facsimile reproductions of old records.

The work is supported and documented with evidence, in many cases facsimiles of original documents, in such a manner that the reader can trace his lineage to the more recent generations whose descendants are well known by current common knowledge, are proven, and establish the eligibility of the descendants to membership in societies which require proof of descent.

Major G. Frost, in his review of it in the New Orleans States says: "Thought Kinfolks is written with the sober restraint of an auditor's report it teems with drama, thrills with pathos, thrills with tense moments as many of the pretentiously literary work falls completely to do. It gives from vitally genuine source material one of the most superb pictures yet put into words of the true American South, of the daily life, the problems, the triumphs, the trials and triumphs of real Southerners from colonial days to modern times."

The author is a cousin of J. S. Harlee of this city and Mr. Harlee is an autographed volume of the book. A picture of Mr. and Mrs. Harlee when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Corsicana, June 25, 1900, also has a place in the book as well as photographs of the couple at the time of their marriage. There has been four generations of the Harlee family since 1600, according to the author, who presents an interesting history of this branch of the family.

Candidates Required
File Final Expense
Accounts at Once

Candidates whose names were on the general election ticket, Nov. 6, are required to file their final expense accounts not later than Saturday, C. T. McWilliams, county judge, announced Thursday morning.

The final expense accounts must be filed with the county judge instead of with the county clerk as is the case in the primary elections.

Luther A. Johnson, congressman of the sixth Texas district, was the first to file his expense account, totalling $112.04.

THE CORSIKANA DAILY SUN DAILY PATTERN

A Dainty House Frock
TOPPED WITH A FRILL

by Anne Adams
Pattern 2068

Take M any way you like, a little frill is feminine and relished by the best of men, particularly when it is used like the one sketched above with its daintily puffed sleeves—its youthfully designed over-the-shoulder yoke—and its tabbed patch-pockets. Wear it with the simple round neckline linked together at the throat, or opened into two perky little lapels similar to those in the upper of the two smaller sketches. Any pretty cotton fabric printed or plain, would be suitable for this dress; for the frill, the same material, pretty lace edging, or ruffling.

Pattern 2068 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3-3/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Order your winter pattern book. Order it now! The new Anne Adams models are stunning and so easy to make! Designs for all ages and all occasions. Price of book, Fifteen Cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

MURCHISON AGAIN
HEADS STEWARDS
FIRST METHODIST

J. S. Murchison was re-elected chairman and Dr. J. Wilson David, vice chairman, of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church, at the organization session of the board held Wednesday night. Guy Bunch was elected secretary and W. M. Huff, treasurer, replacing R. A. Caldwell, who did not stand for re-election to these posts.

On motion of E. S. Babers, a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Caldwell for his efficient work the past year. The chairman was re-elected by a unanimous standing vote with the board pledging him support for the new year. The chairman named two standing committees from last year, one to act as the assignment committee and the other as the budget committee, the chairman stated he would name the other committees at the special meeting called for Monday night.

On motion the pastor named a special committee to assist Sunday, in putting the envelope financial plan into operation in various Sunday school departments. The board voted to make a special order of business for Monday night's meeting the choosing of a paid executive to serve the church and Sunday school.

The assignment committee is to assign the church membership to the various board members and the budget committee is to bring in the proposed budget for the year's work at the Monday night meeting.

W. M. Huff announced the Brotherhood banquet for next Tuesday night.

Rev. C. R. Gray to Be Honor Guest Men Brotherhood Banquet

LIFE SAVING AND
FIRST AID IS PART
OF RED CROSS WORK

THOUSANDS EQUIPPED TO RENDER EFFICIENT WORK
IN WATER HAZARDS

Statistics show that water fatalities claim 7,400 lives a year. This means that in every 71 minutes, a life is snuffed out from drowning. In a determined effort to reduce the hazard of aquatic sports, the American Red Cross, through its First Aid and Life Saving service each year equips thousands of individuals with knowledge in accident prevention and water safety methods.

Today, one half million swimmers who have successfully passed the organization's intensive Life Saving course, can testify to the value of such training.

In Navarro county the services of Dr. R. C. Curtis, as chairman of First Aid and Life-saving, have been secured and, since the local chapter is gradually recovering from the strain that the distribution of government cotton and wheat imposed upon it and the host of volunteer workers that co-operated in the work, and is assuming its normal life, this phase of the Red Cross will get its proper emphasis during the coming year.

In accepting the chairmanship of this committee Dr. Curtis has signified his willingness to personally teach and instruct the First Aid classes when the chapter is ready to function on this activity, which is an important part of the health program of the Red Cross. Special co-operation with the local organizations of Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts is always stressed in this project.

County Campaign.
On November 11 the sixteenth annual Roll Call for Red Cross opened and extends through November 23—a date nationally set each year—from armistice day through Thanksgiving. The intensive drive for Corsicana was made Nov. 13 and 14. The various towns and rural communities of the county will select their times to suit their convenience within the time limit. During this period an invitation is extended every adult citizen in the county to enroll as a member. While economic conditions must be factored with the drive, the determining factor in the results of such a campaign.

The Red Cross can serve humanity only insofar as public confidence and support exists. It is through the willingness to pay a medium through which an individual can express his or her interest in the welfare of his neighbor. In the heart and mind of the individual lies the answer. What will your answer be? Navarro county cannot have a Red Cross chapter if the citizens will not support it by joining. 2100 members is the quota this year. The budget calls for $2250.

MALARIA
Speedy Relief of Chills and Fever

Don't let Malaria tear you apart with its racking chills and burning fever. Trust to no home-made or mere makeshift remedies. Take the medicine prepared especially for Malaria—Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic.

Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic gives real relief from Malaria because it's a scientific combination of quinine, quinine tonic and iron. The quinine kills the Malarial infection in the blood. The iron builds up the system and helps fortify against further attack. At the first sign of any attack of Malaria take Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic. Better still take it regularly during the Malarial season to ward off the danger. Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic is absolutely harmless and tastes good.

Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic now comes in two sizes, 50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money. Get bottles today at any drug store.

A Trust Plan

Here are some questions that you might ask yourself with profit: "After my life insurance is paid—then what. Am I burdening my heirs with the responsibility of wisely investing the proceeds. Who will protect the principal and assure them a steady income."

Alert men are answering this self-imposed question by leaving their life insurance and other assets in trust and naming this bank as trustee. They are making sure that the proceeds of a lifetime will not be dissipated through unwise investment—they are protecting their families by leaving the management of their affairs in the hands of a responsible institution.

We shall be pleased to outline a Trust Plan to fit your particular needs.

HAND TREATMENTS

YOUR HANDS AND NAILS
Today Miss Forbes gives you the entire weekly routine for keeping the hands and nails healthy and young and good-looking. Practice these treatments.

You will want, of course, to keep your hands looking as young as possible. The only way you can do this is by giving them the greatest care at all times. Once every week they must have a thorough manicure every third day a little extra care and about five minutes' attention every day besides this. This may make the whole business sound too complicated, but it really isn't.

As for the weekly manicure, you already know what that is, removing the nail, soaking the nail, clipping the nail, clipping the cuticle from the corners, oiling and bleaching the nails, and finally giving them their proper polish. The daily care you also know. It consists of nothing except rubbing them with oil at bedtime after you have given them a thorough scrubbing, then pushing back the cuticle with an orangewood stick.

The mid-week treatment is the important one. Take your cuticle brush and remove, rub gently over the finger-nails without bothering to remove the polish, then take your pointed nail file and scrape gently around the edges of the nail. The dead cuticle is immediately loosened and comes away, leaving you a smooth edge free of stains. Sometimes this treatment raises odd bits of skin round the corners, but when that happens these are easily clipped off, and you need do nothing further except to rub the nails with tinted pink cuticle oil and to run the orangewood stick once more around the edges. If you do this you can forget your nails entirely, for they will always look well.

Most polish does not last the entire week, so it is a good idea to take it all off 24 hours before you intended to give yourself the thorough manicure. Scrub your nails thoroughly so they'll look well. Oil them generously and keep them oiled until time for a manicure.

Mrs. P. T.—In the in-between seasons for oranges, when they are not at their best when they do get there, and also more costly than the rest of the year, tomatoes are at their best and very inexpensive. Tomatoes grown out in the fields and ripened there, are enriched by the sun rays, and will always make a substitute for oranges when these are not obtainable. Canned tomatoes are also valuable for their having been ripened in the strong sunshine of the summer months, and should be eaten in the winter just as they are without any further cooking, to get the full benefit of the sun rays. The commercially canned ones usually come right from the fields to the cannery, which is set up nearby to save hauling—all to the good of the tomatoes in their food value.

Mrs. B.—If you eat very much bread, it would bring up your weight another 10 pounds, especially if the bread was made from white flour. Hot biscuits, every day, with their unusual amount of butter, could have done much toward adding to your weight. If you can give all these up now, you will not need to do anything else in dieting for the reduction. Better take away the bread gradually, as it acts somewhat like bulk and you will not feel satisfied at first. In a few days your stomach will not crave so much food. And with less food you will have an easy chance at bringing down your weight to normal.

ALWAYS A POWER, NOW CHURCH HAS BECOME A NEW PROBLEM *

Frankly Fronting Present State of Religion, This Lesson Indicates Both the Weaknesses And Strength of the Christian Church.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Are we really grown up enough to face frankly this tremendous question of the present-day Christian church—an issue that is thickly overlaid with platitudes, timidity, custom and conventionality? It needs adult minds to confront the existing problem fairly and freely and fearlessly. For the church is the largest and most widely distributed organization on earth—larger than any nation, through Christendom, the church is part of the basic fabric of our civilization. As we are witnessing today in Germany, the church alone dares to face and withstand political dictatorship.

All of the thinking of the western world is permeated by the ideas, and the language, of the church. To the church has been entrusted the moral and spiritual guidance of the people, from the cradle to the death bed. An intelligent mind that lets itself be brooded upon, the subject of the church is likely to find a sense of wonder and awe, at the uniqueness, ubiquity and power of this institution.

Facing The Facts
Yet all is not well with the church today; and consequently something portentous and prodigious ails society. The church was never before so rich as now; never boasted so many and so beautiful buildings; and never had so many names on her roll. Yet suddenly, the church has sailed into heavy weather. Her vaunted riches are failing her. Her membership is less interested and loyal than formerly. Her power upon human life is diminishing. As Bishop Woodcock recently said, "These times are affecting Christians more than Christians are affecting the times."

What is the matter? Basically, I think, the reason is that too many members and officials have been more interested in the church of Christ than in the Christ of the church. Institutionalism has superseded fellowship and life. The church has become so highly organized that her own upkeep and ongoing have engrossed the activities of the membership. "Church Work," in myriads of instances, consists largely in raising money for the mortgage.

Prideful building of ostentatious houses of worship has broken the back of many a congregation. Today, if they could make any use of the properties, the bankers would have taken over hundreds of church edifices. This post-war zeal for the building of large churches—many of them architectural monstrosities—has in many cases been a worldly substitute for real spiritual life. After having been in many such, I confess to a growing appreciation of the simplicity of the Quaker meeting house. I attended service one morning in a famous and fashionable New York church, and the signs of perfect organization were everywhere, reminding one of the methods of the motion picture palaces. I felt that I had been witnessing a performance, instead of worshipping in a fellowship.

Too Many, Too Much
Many alert members of the church sincerely believe that there is nowadays too much organization, too much institutionalism, too many hired workers, too much professionalism, in her quest to be "efficient." The church has created a multitude of auxiliaries, each with its employees. As I wandered through the lobbies of Convention Hall, in Atlantic City, while the recent Protestant Episcopal General convention was in session, I was amazed and bewildered by the great number of subordinate organizations on exhibition. I doubt if even a bishop could name them all. Similarly, as I walk through certain corridors of the Witherspoon building in Philadelphia, I find questioning thoughts arising in my mind as I read the names of the many "departments" of this one Presbyterian board. The cost of all these incidental organizations is tremendous, and it has brought to pass a condition in many denominations wherein the churches must serve the boards, rather than the boards serve the churches.

Of course, it is a matter of known statistics that we have an over-supply of clergymen and of theological students. To many of these the sacred calling has become a "job," a means of livelihood. In an ecclesiastical gathering one day I heard a minister, who for years had been engaged solely in chicken-raising,

* The International Sunday School Lesson for November 18 is: "The Christian As A Church Member."—Matt. 5:13-16; Acts 2:41-47.

get up and bitterly berate the organization because it had not found a job for him. Imagine Peter and Paul complaining to the church council at Jerusalem that it had not provided them with satisfactory pastorate.

What Is The Church For?
Our lesson gives us a glimpse of the early church, as a brotherhood without buildings—there were no Christian church edifices for at least two centuries—meeting in the Temple, and in the houses of the members. "The church in the house" was a reality then. Later, as their numbers grew, the Christians met in groves and fields; and, after persecution became fierce, in catacombs and other hidden places. Yet the church was never more true to Christ's mind than in those early days.

After all, what is the real purpose of the church? Is it not threefold—an assembly of the Christian brotherhood for fellowship, for fellowship and for instruction? If these three purposes are fulfilled, we have a church. If any one of them is lacking, we have something less than a true Christian church. It takes something more than a man preaching from a pulpit to make a church. I have profitably attended church services where there was no speaking whatsoever. But there was worship and fellowship, and the silent teaching of the spirit. The friends of God had assembled to meet with Him, and with one another.

The Pillars of the Church
Having looked rather critically into the case of the present-day church it would be less than fair for me to fail to record my sincere belief that, despite her shortcomings, the church is the most beneficent institution on earth today. Within her membership are to be found the best people, animated by the highest and holiest motives. Their unrequited service to their fellowmen is unmatched by anything else. They are "the salt of the earth," as Jesus bade them be, preserving and purifying all that is best in the life of the individual and of the community. Without the saving salt of the church, society would soon perish of its own corruption.

I do not know any social problem that is not affected by the church, if the church fully expresses Christianity. Unfortunately, in many places the church has become an objective instead of a force; an end instead of a means; a rest house and a pleasure resort, instead of a power house and a reservoir. Whenever a church exists for itself it has lost its real reason for existence. Then there are the preachers, the much-criticized preachers. Anybody who knows them in large numbers, and does not judge the whole by the group of ambitious, publicity-hungry ones often to be found in the big cities, must bear testimony to their godly lives, to their sacrificial labors, to their sincere Christian devotion and to their immeasurable influence upon the world. We could get along for a generation without our sociologists, our scientists and our politicians; but we simply could not dispense with the men of God; who shape childhood's ideals, fire youth's noblest impulses, hearten the discouraged, visit the sick, solemnize our marriages and bury our

His fortitude and his ability to succeed in his numerous endeavors were outstanding. Although a lawyer, he practiced little.

Landis was born at Seven Mile, in Butler county, Ohio, Aug. 18, 1872, was graduated from the University of Michigan, and opened a law office in Longsight in 1893.

Former Editor Paper.
He was editor of a Longsight newspaper for several years, and it was there he started syndicated column which dealt with current topics of the day.

Landis wrote several books, outstanding of which was "The Copeland." It was produced as a play on the stage. Others are "The Gory of His Country" and "Days Gone Dry."

The widow and six children—Kenesaw M., Frederick B., Elizabeth Ann, Frances Katherine, Charles Walter and Lincoln Landis—survive.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The death today of Representative-elect Frederick Landis of Indiana reduces the republican membership of the newly elected house of 102.

The roster now stands: Democrats, 322; republicans, 102; progressive, 7; farmer-labor 3; vacancy, 1; total, 435.

Although Landis had not had an opportunity to take his seat in the house, congress carries out its usual custom, it will give one year's pay or $10,000 to his wife.

BOARD REGENTS TO INSPECT SCHOOL OF MINES AT EL PASO

Members of the board of regents of the University of Texas will inspect the Texas School of Mines at El Paso Monday and will consider the merit of the applicants and those being considered for the presidency of that school, Beauford H. Jester, chairman of the board, announced here Thursday morning.

After the El Paso trip, the regents will continue to Fort Davis where they will inspect the construction work under way on the McDonald Observatory, a branch of the University of Texas, on Mount Locke. The regents will likely go on a hunting trip while in the Davis mountain area.

"The committee will consider the merits of the applicants and those being considered by the presidency of the Texas School of Mines," Chairman Jester said.

The mines and metallurgy committee is composed of H. H. Weinert, Seguin, chairman, and Dr. K. H. Ainsworth, Waco, and H. J. Litcher, Stark, Orange. The committee is being augmented by Dr. J. E. Case, Morganfield, Kentucky.

The committee will leave Fort Worth for El Paso Saturday night or Sunday noon.

John G. Barry, president of the School of Mines, resigned last spring and Dean C. F. Puckett has been acting president for the past several months.

Mrs. Dyer arrived in Dallas at noon Thursday en route home from a visit with Mr. Dyer's sister, Mrs. Casey, Morganfield, Kentucky.

Received from Mrs. Casey to the effect that she will arrive in Corsicana Friday morning.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Adair Dyer, Dallas, general counsel for the St. Louis-Southwestern Railway company of Texas, and J. M. Dyer, Jr., Corsicana; a daughter, Mrs. Brandon Miller, Corsicana; and other relatives.

No definite funeral arrangements had been perfected shortly after noon Thursday, but it is expected the rites will be held Friday afternoon.

The funeral will be directed by the Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home.

equally in principle but by which the existing ratios would be maintained. These ratios give the United States and Great Britain equal size navies while that of the Japanese is 60 per cent the size of either of the others.

No Tonnage Equality.
The British proposal means that the other nations concerned would recognize that Japan, in principle, has a right to equality but the Japanese navy would not be given actual equality in tonnage.

The United States has opposed this proposal, her delegates saying they believe Japan was given equality in security by the Washington and London naval treaties which now control the size of navies.

The Japanese have indicated informally that the British proposal is not acceptable because they want an equality in tonnage recognized. They indicated that if they were given such equality they would make a declaration that they would not build up their navy to that equality until after a certain number of years.

A spokesman said the American delegation believed press reports abroad of closely related British-Japanese economic and naval moves to be "ridiculous."

Such a development has been denied by all delegations to the preliminary naval conference between Japan, Great Britain and the United States.

As an indication of how "baseless" the reports are, the spokesman said, Norman H. Davis, American delegate, did not refer to them in any way yesterday during an important conference with the British.

attorney, to meet with him today and submit outlines of the kind of life the mother and aunt would provide for Gloria. On the basis of those outlines, he indicated, will be decided with whom the child shall live.

Gloria has been living at the old Westbury, L. I., estate of Mrs. Whitney for the last two and a half years. During the court hearing, she told Justice Carew she was happier there than when she was living in Europe under the care of a nurse.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has announced her intention of obtaining a home on Long Island if she is awarded custody of her daughter.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. FANNING THURSDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Mrs. Augusta Fanning, aged 84 years, who died in San Antonio Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, are scheduled to be held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the residence of her niece, Mrs. G. F. Haslam, 816 West Fourth avenue, with burial in Oakwood cemetery. The rites will be conducted by Rev. T. Edgar Neal, pastor of the First Methodist church.

The remains are scheduled to arrive in Corsicana Wednesday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock on the Southern Pacific Lines passenger train.

Mrs. Fanning resided in Corsicana for many years prior to moving to San Antonio several years ago.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Pearl Fanning Scott, San Antonio, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Palbearers will be T. J. Walton, W. J. Seelig, Ab Haslam, George Whyte, T. P. Kerr and Lawrence Treadwell.

Sutherland-McCammon Funeral Home will direct the services.

Sick and Convalescent.
John Henderson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis Wednesday at the Navarro Clinic, was resting very well Thursday afternoon.

J. S. Haslam was confined to his bed Thursday with a case of influenza.

Tithing Subject Of Sermon Sunday Lone Oak C. P. Church

On this Lord's day at the Lone Oak Cumberland Presbyterian church, at 11 a. m., we will discuss the tithing, which is God's only method of properly financing His church, and show by the Scriptures that we are now reaping what we have sown by misuse of God's holy tithe.

At 3 p. m. we will talk upon the subject of "Man's Rightful Place as Head of Family and Church," and also visit at this time to discuss the possibility of organizing a "sing-song" and have our Christian Endeavor to meet at this time, each Sunday afternoon. So all who are interested in either will please come out. Remember this will be purely an undenominational program, and we will appreciate leaders from other churches that do not have a service at this time, to come out and help us. During the winter months the pastor will preach one Sunday a month, morning and evening.

We also have an interesting announcement to make concerning the electric light plant we are planning to install, and how we may have the co-operation of the people in getting this in by Christmas.
